

PLAYING THE ODDS

An alarming number of Canadians will suffer from a critical illness in their lifetime. Will you be one?

While you may think you will beat the odds, consider the following

- Every year, 146,000 Canadians will be diagnosed with cancer, 150,000 will suffer a heart attack, 50,000 will have a stroke
- 1 in 4 males will have had cancer , a heart attack or a stroke by age 65
- 60% of stroke victims are female
- 80% of hospitalized heart attack patients will survive
- 80% of stroke victims survive

If you become ill, particularly during your working years, your income stream will likely be reduced and your finances will become strained. Critical Illness insurance relieves some of the financial burden that frequently results when one is diagnosed with a covered critical illness.

Don't play the odds. Consider Critical Illness insurance. Call Dan Lawrie Insurance Brokers today for more information.
